The Power of Resilience: How to Support and Nurture it in Your Child with Laura Myszne

Tuesday, September 20

4 PM PST/7 PM EST

For parents of Preschool and early Elementary school children

Resilience is a set of key life skills honed over time that help children to develop strong relationships, find success in both school and career, and contributes to an overall sense of well-being and happiness. By nurturing resilience we help our children weather difficult times, develop positive coping skills, bounce back from challenges, and continue to grow and thrive. Join parent expert Laura Myszne to learn how you can encourage resilience in your child from an early age.

About the Speaker

Laura Myszne is a children's behavior expert who helps parents and educators understand why their children behave the way they do and how to encourage them to be their best and thrive. A proponent of the individual psychology of Alfred Adler whose theory inspired the modern-day Positive Discipline approach, she works as a consultant, coach, and lecturer with parents, teachers, caregivers, and school administrators. Laura speaks English, Spanish, and Hebrew and has lived and practiced in multiple countries giving her extensive experience with all kinds of children in very different types of educational settings and family compositions.
